PISTACHIOS KALE GHOOCHI

The name of agricultural products, especially pistachio, is taken from the area of cultivation, the person who cultivated it for the first time, or their shape and size. Of course, the kale ghoochi pistachio is also known as "Haj Sharifi" pistachio in the market. The reason for this naming was a person named Haj Ali Sharifi who for the first time identified and cultivated this variety of pistachio in the village of Dehno Rafsanjan.

MECHANICAL OPENED PISTACHIOS

These pistachios are first spread in the heat until slightly warmed and ready for the mechanically opening process. Then, immediately after warming, pistachios pour into ponds with cold water (water and ice).

During this cold, the pistachios start to open and the pistachio's mouth cracks slightly.

Next, the pistachios warm and dry in the sun or using a dryer. In the drying process, the pistachios' mouths are more open and smiley.
